

ABSTRACT

Briefly, the mobile phone as a monitoring appliance allows a mobile phone to function as a remote-monitoring device. The mobile phone is turned on and left in the place to be monitored. After the mobile phone has a positive sound volume level comparison or a positive sound volume level comparison and a positive comparison to a target sound, the mobile phone places a telephone call to a predetermined telephone number and transmits the sound received by the microphone in the mobile phone.